DEVOTED TO MAKING ADA A LARGER AND MORE PROGRESSIVE CITY

NUMBER 32

MEXICAN REVOLUTION

DIAZ REFUSES TO YIELD AND REBELS BECOME AGGRESSIVE.

City of Mexico, May 11.—An audacious coup of the revolutionists was made here yesterday when they seized three motor cars on Avenue Juarez, the main avenue in the city filled them with rifles and ammunition and compelled the chauffeurs to drive to Puebla, where they are needed, the authorities not opposing.

This releases some information which I have held in confidence some ten days. There is here in the city a fighting organization of the revolutionists numbering 1,500 men at least not counting the sympathizers with the movement. I have ventured to say that these latter are 95 per cent of the population, but today I was corrected on the authority of one of the oldest and most respected members of the French colony, who says they are 99 3-4 per cent of the population, from which he makes no exceptions for soldiers and police.

This fighting organization is armed, drilled and rationed. They may be ordered at any time to perform their duties and their officers have several times assured me that should Diaz persist in this ostrichlike attitude, should he not soon be forced to realize the situation, an up-rising in the city may become desirable or necessary.

Protection of Foreigners.

I mention this because I am assured that from among the revolutionists a force has been selected and apportioned to the districts to defend and patrol the foreign quarters of the capital while the fighting elsewhere is in progress. While this is a complication of the situation, it is also, in a measure, an assurance that the revolutionists are planning in advance to carry out the pledges which the leaders have frequently and publicly given. However, it seems incredible that this beautiful city should be converted into a battle field with house to house fighting and all that it implies, and I do not believe it will.

There is a meeting of the Ministers now—8 o'clock p. m.—in progress at Diaz's house, Cadena street, and there is much interest, though little of hope in the result.

Diaz still persists in his stubborn attitude and apparently counts on the coming of Reyes for deliverance from his dilemma. He is reported as planning to replace De la Barra, who is hardly a cipher in internal affairs, by Gen. Reyes and then resigning, counting on Reyes to prosecute the war to a successful finish, but this plan, however ingenious, is put into execution about three months too late.

OWEN AND GORE WILL SUPPORT WILSON

Washington, D. C., May 12.—Senator Gore has apparently been as thoroughly inoculated with the Gov. Wilson-for-President virus as has his colleague, Senator Owen from Muskogee, who has the Wilson bug so badly, that he almost forgets sometimes that he told a well known southern senator a year or so ago, that the presidential bee was merrily buzzing about his own ears.

The talk of Owen as a running mate for Gov. Wilson on the democratic ticket has in a way gotten Sen. Gore's goat, and he is now hovering as close to the throne of Woodrow Wilson of Princeton, New Jersey, as is his colleague, the junior senator from Oklahoma.

Senator Gore has had several conferences with agents of Gov. Wilson and as a result the strength of the blind senator in Oklahoma, it is said, has been promised to the "college professor from Princeton, New Jersey." In spite of Wall street's informal endorsement of Wilson for president on the democratic ticket, there is a large coterie of New York democrats in Congress who say that Gov. Wilson will have to go some to carry the Empire state and that no man can hope to win without the support of the New York delegation.

The Wilson presidential boom has been given impetus the past week, however, especially since his 7000 mile tour of the west and South has been announced.

Senators Gore and Owen will likely have charge of the Wilson campaign in Oklahoma but the acute students of the political game in the new state especially among the Oklahoma delegation generally in congress are of the firm belief that Senator Owen will be opposed for a renomination to the senate, by former Gov. Haskell, and that the Indian senator had better attend to his own knitting, rather than attempt to direct the destinies of the delegation from Oklahoma to the national democratic convention which will assemble next year.

Senator Owen really has his mind on the vice presidency, or his eagle eye focused upon a cabinet job, in case the New Jersey man should manage to land in the presidential chair, according to some of his friends although he is never losing sight of the main chance when it comes to a renomination to the senate.

Senator Owen is possibly the only person familiar with Oklahoma politics in Washington, that does not believe Gov. Haskell will be his opponent in the senatorial race next year.

Arranging Course of Study.

Oklahoma City, May 12.—A committee, composed of Messrs. Glenn, Scott and Brandenburg, of the state board of education, having in charge the course of study in the state schools, is in session today for the purpose of revising the courses in the state normal schools. It is the belief of the board that this work should be done before changes are made in the faculty since those changes will be made according to the changes in the course of study. This committee will make its report to the board which will meet next Monday.

The committee on rural schools is also in session today for the purpose of drafting instructions to rural districts which desire to consolidate. The state board considers the matter of consolidation of school districts and the formation of township high schools as one of the greatest reforms in the educational system of the state.

COMMITTEE LEGISLATION IN U. S. CONGRESS

Special Correspondence.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—The senate committees have been fully formed and announced, and both branches of congress are now ready for the legislation of the extra session. The vital committee of the senate, that on finance, is headed by Senator Boies Penrose, of Pennsylvania.

Senators and Representatives Compared.

The United States Senate has only 92 members. The U. S. House of Representatives has 391 members, or 4 1-4 times as many members as the senate; and yet the two chambers of congress have equal powers in shaping and vitalizing the legislation of the Nation. So that, legislatively speaking, one Senator is equal to 4 1-4 representatives.

But the senate possesses treaty-making and appointment-confirming powers, not shared by the house, which give the senate a rein on the executive department of government; and these latter powers give a senator a voice, weight and influence not wielded by a representative. Hence, abstractly speaking, one senator exercises the prestige, power and influence of at least five representatives on the total powers and functions of government.

But either a Senator's or a Representative's relative influence on legislation is augmented or decreased materially and vitally by his committee assignments.

Committee Legislation.

Committees are the moulders and the censors of legislation. Theirs are legislative dissecting rooms in which pruning-knives may be used with cunning and skill and at the dictate of special interests. Theirs are the dark rooms of deliberation and the star-chambers of special privileges. Committees sit behind closed doors—in the sanctum sanctorums of legislation, not reached by the searchlights of publicity; and committee-legislation is easily susceptible of abuse.

REFRIGERATORS EASY PAYMENTS SMITH 203-5 W. Main St.

An important truth was recently well expressed by Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, when he said that "legislation," as we get it nowadays, "is not conducted in the open. It is not threshed-out in open debate upon the floors of our assemblies. It is, on the contrary, framed, digested and concluded in committee-rooms. It is in committee rooms that legislation not desired by the interests dies. It is in committee rooms that legislation desired by the interests is framed and brought forth."

Legislation always and everywhere should be conducted in the broad light of open publicity; but, in most legislative bodies, there is not enough open debate, in many cases, to disclose and uncover the real meaning and purpose of things. Clauses, which contain the whole gist and purpose of measures, too often lie quietly concealed and undiscovered till they become parts of statutes. Qualifying phrases, casual definitions, or technical califications, not generally understood but containing the whole purposes and ends of measures, are too often covered-up in bills or resolutions, escape public notice, attract no special attention, are not expounded nor explained by those whose interests are most intimately and immediately concerned and benefited by them and become parts of laws to operate in the private interests of the favored few and against the private interests of the unsuspecting many till discovered in the courts only when it is too late to throttle the injustice that is too often perpetrated under forms of law. And yet, our modern legislation is largely committee legislation; so that the general public has an interest, a keen and vital interest in the personnel of the important committees of the Senate and of the House of Representatives of the United States.

The Senate Committee on Finance.

The one "On Finance" is the most important and powerful committee of the United States senate. It is the "ways and means" committee of that august body. The senate itself is powerless to consider any revenue measure without the consent of eight of the fifteen senators who constitute its finance committee. Tariff revision, an income-tax, the pending Canadian reciprocity agreement and the pending "farmer's bill" are all revenue measures; and, before the senate may consider any one of these a majority of its finance committee must consent to its being reported for that purpose. But the deafness of the regular republican senators to the demands of the people for substantial relief-legislation along revenue lines in the form of tariff reductions is made manifest in the fact that in recently reforming the personnel of its finance committee, the senate standpaters appropriated to themselves eight of the places on this great committee and gave the tariff-reductionists only seven places on it. So that, before the majority of the senate (who are tariff-revisionists) can consider any measure looking to that end, they must first secure the consent of these eight standpaters or of at least one of them who, combining with La Follette and six democrats, may form a temporary majority for the purpose of permitting the senate to consider such a measure. If the senate does nothing along the lines of relief-legislation, the responsibility for its failure will be narrowed-down to the eight standpaters on its Finance committee, primarily; and, ultimately, to the regular republican senators who framed that particular committee in that particular way.

The thirteen progressive republican senators claimed two places on the Finance committee—two of the nine places on that committee reserved for republican senators; and they based their claim upon three seemingly strong and satisfactory reasons; first, that, inasmuch as they represent twenty-five per cent of the whole republican side of the senate they should be allowed twenty-five per cent of republican representation on its most important committee; second that, inasmuch as the people of the people of the land had recently declared themselves in favor of tariff reductions, the finance committee of the Senate should have a majority of its members friendly to the expressed wishes of the people; and, third, that it would be manifestly unfair and unjust to the people who had made this demand for the senate to deliberately pack its finance committee against them; but the "regulars" turned deaf ears to the demands of both the people and their progressive republican representatives in the senate, and proceeded most doggedly and deliberately, if not defiantly, to "pack" its finance committee against the very legislation which the people are demanding.

Two places on that committee filled by progressives would, when combined with the six democrats on that committee, have given those in favor of tariff-reductions eight votes in committee and a majority of the com-

HARD SLEDDING FOR REAPPORTIONMENT BILL

Washington, D. C., May 12.—The feeling is growing daily that the senate will not pass the Houston reapportionment bill, providing for a membership of 433 in the next house of representatives. Senator LaFollette, chairman of senate committee on census, has all along been opposed to the passage of a bill that would increase the present membership of the house, which according to many, is already a too unwieldy body.

It greatly depends as to whether or not anything but the Canadian reciprocity bill is reported favorably to the senate as to the fate of the reapportionment bill, which if it passes, would increase Oklahoma's congressional representative by three members. Whether LaFollette's opposition will be carried so far as to prevent the committee from reporting the bill, is the merest conjecture, although there is an apparent air of finality about some of the senators when they suggest that the reapportionment bill may be held up at this session of congress, indeed if the bill be not kept in committee until after the next presidential election.

Senator Gore is one of the senators who believes that the congressional reapportionment bill will have hard sledding in getting through the senate during the extra session of congress, at least.

Taft Pardons Oklahoma Convict.

Washington, May 11.—President Taft, in granting executive clemency today to Daniel Jones, serving a life sentence for murder in Leavenworth penitentiary, brought to light a sordid story of a pioneer's life along the Indian Territory frontier in the 70s.

Jones, after serving a two years' sentence in a Texas jail, returned to the then Indian Territory to find his home wrecked by his cousin, William. There were reconciliations, however, and the family moved to the wilderness along the Red river. One night early in 1879, William Jones was shot and killed in the cabin the family occupied. A woman passing the night there, testified William's wound was not powder-burned as it would have been if he were a suicide, and upon that evidence Daniel Jones was sentenced to be hanged.

His sentence was commuted to life imprisonment in 1884 and President Roosevelt in 1908 refused to pardon him. When the case came along to President Taft, the undertaker who buried William Jones appeared and made affidavit that William's wound was badly powderburned. They recommended clemency. President Taft decided there was grave doubt of Daniel Jones' guilt, and has freed him.

Jones has served twenty-seven years behind prison walls, the equivalent of a forty years' sentence.

During the campaign it was said that if elected Lem Mitchell would parties that intimidated anything of the sort ought to be willing to apologize to Uncle Lem, now, as he has sheriff in this section of Oklahoma, and doesn't show any symptoms of letting up on the deal. Hats off, gen-

If there is to be no relief from the stray bullets flying across the line when the Mexicans engage in a scrap it is likely that some fine day there may be a surprise in store for the combatants. The citizens of El Paso or some other border town may be forced to take the law into their own hands and in a dash across the line show those greasers what a real fight means.

The News fails to see any special advantage to the city in permitting side show attractions in the main business streets of the town. It occurs to us that these should be relegated to some side street if they are to be permitted in the streets at all.

Now that unsightly rubbish is being cleaned up and the appearance of things helped many degrees in that respect, the News would like to see some organization take over the park areas on East 12th street and grow something this season besides weeds.

The world may owe a man a living but it does not run a free delivery service with which to dump it

Oklahoma is not the only place with two cities claiming to be the capital. Mexico is in the same fix just now with the rebels proclaiming Juarez as the capital of the republic.

Yesterday the regulars could not muster sufficient votes to elect Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire as president protempore of the Senate.
The insurgents refused to stand hitched and the election is still up in the air. The insurgents now hold the balance of power in the senate and the regulars will hereafter be forced to make terms with them when any question of importance comes up for consideration.

Since his victory at Juarez Madero the leader of the revolution, has decided that he can support a cabinet and has made appointments accordingly. If he needs any more perhaps Taft might spare him one or two.

G. M. Ramsey and family returned yesterday afternoon from their auto trip to the west. While out they stopped at Hobart, Sentinel and Clin-150 miles. The worst stretch of road is between Ada and Chickasha, but they made this part of the trip in a day. They had no trouble whatever with their machine and never as much as suffered a punctured tire.

Mr. Ramsey reports that it is even drier out there than it is here and that wheat and oats are suffering badly.

Dr. Goddard and "Mother's Day."

Rev. O. E. Goddard, D.D., of Muskogee, will be in Ada next Sunday on a visit to his brother, Rev. S. F.
Goddard, presiding elder of Ada district, and will preach at the Methodist church. Doctor Goddard is Missionary secretary for all the Methodist Conferences of Oklahoma and Arkansas, and was some years ago a missionary to China and would probably be there today, but the health of his wife would not admit of their living in that country. He is one of the strongest men and ablest preachers of the Southern Methodist denomination, and has been spoken of as one of their future bishops.

Next Sunday also "Mother's Day" will be observed at the Methodist church, and every one who conveniently can is requested to wear a white carnation, in honor of "the best mother that ever lived—your mother." If carnations are not to be had, wear some other flower, if convenient; and it is hoped that every man in Ada will attend church next Sunday in honor of his mother, whether she is living in this or in the better world.

New Charge Against Waugh.

Muskogee, Okla., May 12.—Infor-

B. J. Waugh, a minister of the gospel, and former head of the state enforcement department, on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, according to a statement given out by County Attorney W. E. Disney.

Waugh was indicted by the recent grand jury on the charge of receiving a bribe from W. H. Delehant and Joe Lightle for suppressing evidence and turning back four bottles of beer.
He is alleged to have secured twenty-five dollars. His attorney went into court and demurred to the indictment on the grounds that Waugh was not an enforcement officer at the time the money is supposed to have been collected. The demurrer was sustained and the indictment quashed but Justice Allen stated that Waugh could be held for obtaining money under false pretenses, and Prosecutor Disney will bring another action on the latter charge.

COLORS FOR SPRING

EDICT OF FASHION IN CHILDREN'S GARMENTS.

Should Be Combined With Whites to Have the Proper Effect—Long Bodice and Skirt Still Favored.

Children's fashions all have an especial charm when made up in spring materials, and this year a look of unusual novelty is added to this blithe-ness. Color put on white is immen-sely in vogue, bands, yokes and cuffs in the most vivid hues showing on snowy little frocks and aprons. This color note with white may take the form of a very effective if simple embroidery on a fine frock of marquisette, which texture washes like a rag, and very often the needlework in heavy blocks will contain half a dozen rich colors.
A deep red, blue of the most intense sort, black, orange, mahogany and green are tints that appear in this needlework, which, whether hand or machine made, is called Bulgarian embrodery. Of course the small frocks so treated need to be dry-cleaned as the vivid trimming used cannot be counted on to stand the rigors of the washtub.

Nevertheless, many a little lawn and linen frock may show needlework in one or three of these rich colors, and if the garment comes from a first class place—perhaps a shop that makes a specialty of juvenile wear—it is pretty likely to be warranted as washable.

With the bordered muslins, lawns, swisses and challises, for chalfie is included among the wash materials—the contrasting banding will be used with charming effect at the bottom of little skirts, about the cut-out neck and at the edge of sleeves. All white frocks are seen in plenty and surely nothing could be sweeter for very young children, but when the child has passed five a touch of color is newer, and it is apt to appear if only in the form of ribbon knots and sashes.

As to design, the garments of the girl of seven, perhaps, are pretty apt to show some of the lines of her mamma's frocks, for kimono cuts are used for bodices and there are many little one-piece gowns almost identical in line with those for grown-ups. The difference comes in an easy width of the skirt, in a décolletage of the neck and in very short sleeves, all raiment distinctly for summer wear showing these last points.

Models for the tinter children have the babyish features suited to pudgy infantile figures, and with the dress-up wash frock it is pretty much the rage to have the child look as much like a French doll as possible. The long bodice and skirt—that is no more than a tiny flounce with edge sometimes falling short of the child's knees —still comprise the favored model, but instead of the distinct sleeve the bodice portion of the smart garment is cut in one with these details. Infact, it is well nigh impossible to escape the kimono influence, and although it may be run in the ground after awhile for the moment it is all powerful.

Among the accessories for little girls are delightful aprons, which, since they are skirt length, may be used on a hot day in the house or country without a frock. These graceful and important details may be of the plainest linens or ginghams, but mothers who like the neatness and coquetry of the apron often turn out cunning little affairs of dotted swiss with lace edges for wear with quite fine frocks.

The "cook's apron" is the next style, the rear bands fastening at the shoulders being an exact imitation of some of the apron cuts used by chefs. The little quantity of goods needed for this apron should recommend it to mothers who like their children to present a neat appearance at home and who cannot afford too many changes of frocks.
Then quite a gay and childish look can be given the small garment with the use of a colored cotton with small Mother Goose figures for the banding, one such being employed in this case as a brown linen.

He is content to do without the patronage of the M. O. & G. Machinists Go on Strike.

Muskogee, Okla., May 11.—One hundred and fifty machinists in the shops from M. O. & G. railroad went out on a strike here today because W. H. Johnston, a foreman, was discharged by the master mechanic.

The strike is indirectly the result of working negroes with white men.
Johnston had discharged three negro employes.

The master mechanic reinstated them and Johnston refused to approve their time checks, and then the master mechanic discharged Johnston. In addition to the men who went out of the shops here about thirty men went out at Wapanucka, Okla. and Denison. No effort has been made to replace the men. The strike has not yet spread to the operating department, but threatens to do so.

CRUCE DOES NOT FAVOR

AN EXTRA SESSION

Oklahoma City, May 12.—Governor Lee Cruce stated Thursday night that he will not call an extra session of the state legislature during his administration until he becomes convinced beyond any reasonable doubt that there is need for it. In a letter addressed to the Enid Chamber of Commerce the governor reiterated former statements that he would not call an extra session. The Enid body desired the state legislature to consider the repeal of article nine, section nine of the constitution. Numerous other requests for a special session have been received by the chief executive, but he has maintained in every instance that an extra session is unnecessary.

M. O. & G. Extend Line.

Oklahoma City, May 12.—According to word received in Oklahoma City Thursday, the financing of the northwest railroad, at least that portion between Henryetta and Oklahoma City, has been completed in France by William Kenefick, president of the M. O. & G. company, who returned to New York city Wednesday.

This will mean that construction of the road between Henryetta and Oklahoma City will be commenced, as to detail, at once, and that plans for the securing of the necessary right of way will be formulated within a short time.

Whether this will mean that the road will attempt to condemn property for the right of way or to organize road districts under the recently enacted road district law is not known. The question of the constitutionality of the road district law has been raised, although not in the courts, and a test probably will be made by those interested in the new railroad.

Under the road district law, road districts could be constituted by the taxpayers of a county, who could also vote to a road the privilege of using the right of way for railroad purposes. Whether a test of the law as to the northwest railroad will be made at this time is not known, but something definite can be expected within the next few weeks.

Ada has some enthusiastic baseball fans and these will never have a better opportunity of seeing a game that will raise their enthusiasm to the boiling point than Wednesday and Thursday when the Ada boys cross bats with the Edmon aggregation. That Edmond team is a fast one, but the Ada boys are by no means slow coaches themselves, so the prospect is for two of the best games ever played on the normal field.

GETS LIFE SENTENCE FOR

MURDER OF GIRL

Frankfort, Ky., May 11.—Joseph Wendling, convicted of the murder of 8-year-old Alma Kellner, must spend the remainder of his life in prison, according to a decision today by the Kentucky court of appeals, affirming the life sentence of the trial court.

After a chase which extended from Louisville to New Orleans, then to Texas, finally ending in California, Wendling was arrested, tried and convicted of the murder of the Kellner child in Louisville, Dec. 8, 1909. Her mutilated body was found in the basement of the church where Wendling was employed as a janitor a short time after Wendling had fled from Louisville.

BESTOVAL FLOUR

It is made in the most modern and best equipped mill in the state of Oklahoma. It is made from Oklahoma wheat by Oklahoma labor, and is, strictly speaking, an

Oklahoma Flour for Oklahoma People

Flour is King of all foods—the cleanest and purest of all foods—the most easily digested—the staff of life—and BESTOVAL is the king of all flours.

It is the heart of the choicest wheat grown in the State of Oklahoma, and contains only the most nutritious and richest elements of the wheat berry. The cream of the wheat is separated from the rest, and after being bolted and re-bolted through the finest silk cloth, and purified by blasts of pure clean air, it finally becomes

It costs more to make BESTOVAL FLOUR, and because of this fact, the price is a little higher, not much higher—not over a penny a day, but the retail price in the grocery store is above the price of other flour; however, you get greater value for your money inasmuch as good bread takes the place of other much higher priced foods, and bread is always good and pure and wholesome when made from BESTOVAL flour. Every sack carries the following:

Guarantee.

Order a sack of BESTOVAL flour from your grocer; take it home and give it a thorough, careful trial with a good yeast; make bread, biscuits, cake or any kind of pastry with it, and if you are not satisfied that it is the best and most economical flour you have ever used, and worth all it costs, return it to your grocer and the full purchase price will be refunded to you without argument.
